Mandarin Chinese at ENATAI ELEMENTARY

Little People BILINGUAL Dreams!<sup>SM</sup>

What parent hasn't dreamed that their child might be bilingual? Do you share that dream with your child? We do! The Purple School<sup>SM</sup> changes dreams into reality by recognizing the extraordinary receptivity of a young child's mind to multiple language development. Bilingualism leads to higher creativity and academic achievement in children. We use a set of defined objectives and work passionately towards those goals. We use music, song, play, chants, and games to motivate children and to give them a strong foundation for (and keen interest in) becoming bilingual!

Language and Brain Development

Mbahasa Melayu, a Malaysian language, has different words signifying several degrees of saltiness (for example, as salty as soy sauce, as salty as sea water, as salty as salt, and horribly salty). Speakers of this language can make finer distinctions about how much salt is in a solution than can English speakers tasting the same solution. Thus an extra language may actually influence our senses in subtle ways, causing us to experience the world a little more discerningly. -- Living Language, a Random House Company

Our Teachers

We look for and hire caring, high-energy teachers with experience and a passion for education and bilingualism. The founder of The Purple School is Joyce Nadolny Shui. Joyce is a graduate of Harvard University and is, with her husband, raising three multi-lingual daughters (plus one on the way!). Her oldest daughter (age 10) named The Purple School, her second daughter (age 8) so loves the classes that she independently recruits friends and classmates, and the third daughter is 14 months with bilingual dreams! Find out more about us at www.PurpleSchool.com.
